Anthony Floyd: I want to express my gratitude for this opportunity. I understand your busy schedule, and as a student of Hoke High, I deeply appreciate your dedication. Your hard work does not go unnoticed.

Dr. Spells: I'm always available for students.

Floyd: Your commitment is truly admirable. First question: As new and returning students enter the upcoming school year, what are your specific goals and priorities for our school? How do you plan to enhance academic programs, extracurricular activities, and the overall student experience? What is your vision for Hoke County High School during the 2024-2025 school year?

Dr. Spells: My vision is to create a competitive and prestigious high school where students feel proud. We aim to strengthen academic programs to ensure students are well-prepared for college or the workforce. Additionally, we want to provide diverse extracurricular opportunities so that every student can pursue their interests. Ultimately, I want Hoke High to be a place where students have the resources and support to achieve their dreams, whether it's in academia, the arts, or any other field.

Floyd: Your clarity in articulating these goals is impressive. It's refreshing to hear such a comprehensive vision for our school.

Dr. Spells: Thank you.

Floyd: Regarding teacher shortages impacting the district, what long-term strategies is the administration implementing to recruit and retain qualified educators, and how are these shortages affecting the quality of education provided to students in Hoke County?

Dr. Spells: Our approach involves creating a supportive work environment where every staff member feels valued and heard. We prioritize listening to our educators and ensuring clear communication. Additionally, we provide professional development and mentorship to support new teachers. Ultimately, our goal is to attract and retain talented educators who are dedicated to our students' success.

Floyd: Your commitment to supporting teachers is evident. Providing a nurturing environment is crucial for both educators and students.

Dr. Spells: Absolutely.

Floyd: As someone who transitioned from teaching to a superintendent role, do you have any advice for aspiring educators or individuals looking to advance in their careers?

Dr. Spells: Seize opportunities when they arise, be prepared, and always strive to do your best. My journey involved facing challenges, but perseverance and continuous learning were key. Additionally, seeking mentorship and asking questions can greatly contribute to professional growth.

Floyd: Your journey is inspiring, and your advice resonates with aspiring professionals. Thank you for sharing your insights. How do you plan to ensure fairness and equal opportunities for students, considering the diverse backgrounds they come from? How will you address inclusivity within our school district?

Dr. Spells: I aim to establish a student advisory panel to facilitate open dialogue and address concerns. By actively involving students in decision-making processes, we can ensure inclusivity and fairness. Additionally, I prioritize creating a supportive environment where every student feels valued and respected.

Floyd: Your commitment to inclusivity is commendable. Empowering students to voice their opinions is essential for fostering a sense of belonging. Many students, including myself, have faced personal challenges affecting our academic performance. How will you support mental health services and other resources to create a healthier learning environment at Hoke County High School?

Dr. Spells: We are committed to providing comprehensive support for students' mental health needs. This includes professional development for staff, implementing effective strategies to identify and support struggling students, and ensuring accessible resources for mental health services.

Floyd: Your dedication to prioritizing students' well-being is evident. Providing adequate mental health support is crucial for creating a nurturing learning environment.

In Dr. England's Project Management course, students are empowered to develop advanced project management skills through project-based learning. By exploring concepts of quality, communication, risk, procurement, and stakeholder management, students are inspired to think beyond the classroom and apply their knowledge in real-world situations. Upon successfully completing the course, students are presented with credentials that could be transferred to a university for up to 3 college hours/credits, opening up possibilities for their future careers.

Congratulations to our future entrepreneurs! We would like to extend our sincere gratitude to all those who contributed to and donated towards making this event a resounding success for our students.

Congratulations CTE Concentrator Platinum WorkKeys Recipients!

As students prepare to transition into the workforce, it's important to recognize that they have various paths ahead—whether they choose to enter the job market immediately after high school, work part-time while continuing their education, or pursue higher education first. The WorkKeys assessment system plays a crucial role in this transition, assisting employers in selecting, hiring, training, developing, and retaining a quality workforce. By providing a standardized measure of skills, it eliminates the uncertainty in evaluating individuals' qualifications for positions within their organizations.

Why is The WorkKeys important to high school students?

- Enables you to see the importance of your courses
- Shows prospective employers concrete proof of your skills
- Increases the chances you will be hired after graduation
- Improves your success in entry-level and subsequent jobs
- Enables you to rank above other job applicants who do not have needed skills

WorkKeys questions feature everyday workplace problems. In each case, the basic skills needed to answer the questions are the same as those needed to perform actual job tasks, such as solving a legal question, setting up a computer, or scheduling employee vacations. Each test measures a range of skill levels, from the lowest level for which employers are willing to test up to the point at which specialized training is needed. Individuals who score at certain levels on three WorkKeys assessments- Applied Mathematics (AM), Reading for Information (RI), and Locating Information (LI)- will qualify for a Career Readiness Certificate (CRC).

What are the CRC Levels and average scores needed to qualify?

- Gold 5's and above
- Silver 4's and above
- Bronze 3's and above

The Contemporary Law and Justice class, under the guidance of Mrs. Cummings, visited the Hoke County District Attorney's office and the Hoke County Courthouse for a field trip. During the visit, students had the privilege to engage in discussions with Hoke County District Attorney Michael Hardin, Judge Kevin Bridges, and Judge Stephen Bibey. The trip was organized by the DA administrative assistants Ms. Christine Caulder and Sam Beebe to ensure that students from Hoke County High School received an informative and positive tour.

The students were able to observe court proceedings related to various cases including drug charges, robbery, hit and run, and domestic cases.

This month, our Public Safety students (right) received expert training in the art of fingerprint retrieval. This training will prepare them for the challenges of a career in law enforcement, where attention to detail and a commitment to justice are essential. Our students are well-equipped to make a positive impact in our community.

We are proud of their dedication and hard work in pursuing their passion for serving others.

ANIME ARTISTS

At Hoke High, there is an Anime club. This club does activities that are either related to Anime or Japanese culture. For example, they spent a club meeting learning how to use chopsticks and some people have even learned a bit of Japanese! The person who runs the club makes sure the members interact with each other and the activities are fun for them. In some instances, they learn life lessons as well as cooking tips!
